

Employee training.

Save time.

Save money.

As low as $5
per person per class.

The Problem

In addition to employee grievances and lost time accidents, there were more than 98,000 OSHA training-related citations issued last year with initial penalty amounts in excess of $120 million.

Can your firm afford to have an under-educated workforce?

You recognize that your employees need training, but:

- It's difficult to find the time
- It's too expensive
- It usually requires travel
- It's difficult to identify the good trainers
- It's difficult to keep track of individual employee training records
- It's difficult to determine the appropriate training for each employee
